TO THE Promoters of Literature.

THE managers of the Beula Seminary, impelled by motives of pure morality, having resolved to dispose of the following property by way of LOTTERY, in order to assist them in erecting a convenient building for the accommodation of one hundred students, and the necessary professors in the different departments of science—do offer for sale three hundred and fifty lots in BEULA, each fifty-eight feet by one hundred and twenty-five, at twenty dollars per ticket, each ticket entitled to a lot to be determined by ballot; ten dollars to be paid on receipt of the ticket, and the remaining ten on the delivery of the deed. The ballot to take place before impartial men, as soon as the whole number of tickets are sold.

The managers, anticipating the difficulty of obtaining cash for the whole, have resolved to receive an equivalent, for some of the lots, in selected books; philosophical apparatus, or in produce and materials for building, delivered on the spot.

It may be observed, that the value of prizes in this lottery will be more than double the amount of all the tickets; for 350 lots, would at their average estimation, produce at least 15,750 dollars; whilst, according to the present proposals, the sum obtained for them will be only 7,000 dollars.

Tickets may be had during this winter, of Morgan J. Rhees, president of the board of managers, no. 177, fourth Second-street, Philadelphia; who will receive proposals and plans for the erection of the building. It is intended to be of brick or stone; its situation on the summit of a gradual rising eminence, commanding an extensive prospect of the surrounding country; an observatory to be on its top.

Land and out lots in the vicinity of the Town may be had on moderate terms by applying as above. Mechanics and laborers, of good morals will meet with encouragement.

Late Foreign Articles

LONDON, November 16.
The American agents are at this time very busy in buying up ships to be converted into ships of force; several of the French, Dutch, and Spanish prizes lately taken, have been purchased by them, and are, with permission of government, gone into private docks to be repaired, and fitted out with all possible dispatch.

The Duke of Devonshire and Earl Moira have set a laudable example in Ireland, by resolving, that they will let no estates in future to what are termed middle men, but that the real occupiers shall be the only leasers of their respective farms.

Lady Nelson has taken a house at Bath, for the reception for her gallant Lord, who is shortly expected to arrive in England.

Letters from Hamburg say, that Dumourier, with several officers who have followed under him have been induced, by advantageous offers, to enter into the service of the Ottoman Porte. It is added, that Dumourier and suite are upon the eve of taking their departure for Constantinople.

The remittances to this country from the Continent have of late been so great, that there is at this moment more cash in the Bank, than there has been at any period since the commencement of the war.

The price of Salt Petre has lately advanced near 60 per cent. Several articles of drugs are also increased lately beyond all precedent.

Yesterday arrived in town several of the Officers who came over in the late cartel ship from France. They report that the French government are in a state of the utmost alarm, in consequence of the tumults which have broken out in the Netherlands, and that troops are pouring towards the Flemish frontier from every quarter.

They also report, that on passing from Lille to Gravelines, on the 16th inst. a very heavy cannonade was heard in the direction of Courtray, in the neighbourhood of which town, it is supposed an action had taken place between the military and the people.

DUBLIN, Nov. 13.
Private Letter.

This day the famous Holt, who surrendered to Lord Powellsfort, on terms of transportation for life, was brought to the Castle in a post-chaise, and escorted by the Powers-court yeoman cavalry. He is a very good looking tall man, and was dressed in a military uniform—scarlet faced with blue, and a blue military great coat. The capture of Buonaparte could not create greater exultation here or be more generally the subject of conversation.

Trial of Theobald Wolfe Tone.
The Trial of T. W. Tone by a Court Martial at the Barrack, of which general Loftus was President, is concluded.

Tone being asked, whether he was guilty or not of the charge of having as a false Traitor entered into the Service of the Enemy, and appeared in Arms against his Sovereign? replied, That he would give the Court no trouble.—That he fully admitted the charge.

He then read a kind of Defence, in doing which he was at three different inflammatory passages stopped by the Court, and suffered to erase the obnoxious parts out of the Paper.

The general tendency of this paper was that he confessed having entered into the French service (and he produced his commission of Chief de Brigade); that he had embarked in the great design of raising three millions of his own fellow subjects from a state of bondage; that he had made the same attempt in which Washington had succeeded, and Kosciuszko had failed; to the Catholics of Ireland he acknowledged his obligations; he had engaged sincerely in their service, and had been amply remunerated; the connection of Ireland with Great Britain he had ever considered as her bane, and he had acted under that conviction to rescue his country; success he could not command, and he was prepared to meet his fate.

As a soldier, however, he wished to die like a soldier; he wished as an emigrant taken in arms, to be treated as the French had treated the Count de Sombiteuil, and to be shot; the sooner his fate was to take place, the better; he wished it might be within an hour.

He was then remanded to prison, and the Court proceeded to discuss the sentence, which was sent to the Lord Lieutenant for his approbation, and has not yet transpired.

NOTES ON VIRGINIA, p. 69.

"In war we have produced a Washington, whose memory will be adored, while liberty shall have votaries,—whose name will triumph over time, and will in future ages assume its just station among the most celebrated worthies of the world, when that wretched philosophy shall be forgotten, which would have arranged him among the degeneracies of nature."

Extract of a letter from Mr. Jefferson, Secretary of State, to Mr. Morris, Minister Plenipotentiary of the United States with the Republic of France, dated August 16, 1793.

"Conscious, on our part, of the same friendly and sincere dispositions, we can with truth affirm, both for our nation and government, that we have never omitted a reasonable occasion of manifesting them. For I will not consider as of that character opportunities of falling forth from our ports to way-lay, rob, and murder defenceless merchants and others, who have done us no injury, and who were coming to trade with us in the confidence of our peace and amity. The violation of all the laws of order and morality which bind mankind together, would be an unacceptable offering to a just nation. Recurring then only to recent things, after so afflicting a libel, we recollect with satisfaction that in the course of two years, by unceasing exertions, we paid up seven years arrears and instalments of our debt to France, which the inefficiency of our first form of government had suffered to be accumulating; that pressing on still to the entire fulfilment of our engagements, we have facilitated to Mr. Genet the effect of the instalments of the present year, to enable him to fend relief to his fellow-citizens in France, threatened with famine; that in the first moment of the insurrection which threatened the colony of St. Domingo, we stepped forward to their relief with arms and money, taking freely on ourselves the risk of an unauthorized aid, when delay would have been denial; that we have received, according to our best abilities, the wretched fugitives from the catastrophe of the principal town of that colony, who, escaping from the swords and flames of civil war, threw themselves on us naked and homeless, without food or friends, money or other means, their faculties lost and absorbed in the depth of their distresses; that the exclusive admission to sell here the prizes made by France on her enemies, in the present war, though stipulated in our treaties, and unfounded in her own practice, or in that of other nations, as we believe; the spirit manifested by the late grand jury in their proceedings against those who had aided the enemies of France with arms and implements of war; the expression of attachment to his nation, with which Mr. Genet was welcomed, on his arrival and journey from south to north, and our long forbearance under his gross usurpations and outrages of the laws and authority of our country, do not bespeak the partialities intimated in his letters. And for these things he rewards us by endeavours to excite discord and distrust between our citizens and those whom they have entrusted with their government; between the different branches of our government; between our nation and his. But none of these things, we hope, will be found in his power. That friendship which dictates to us to bear with his conduct yet awhile, left the interest of his nation here should suffer injury, will hasten them to replace an agent whose dispositions are such a misrepresentation of theirs, and whose continuance here is inconsistent with order, peace, respect, and that friendly correspondence which we hope will ever subsist between the two nations. His government will see too that the case is pressing. That it is impossible for two sovereign and independent authorities to be going on within our territory, at the same time, without collision. They will foresee that if Mr. Genet perseveres in his proceedings, the consequences would be so hazardous to us, the example so humiliating and pernicious, that we may be forced even to suspend his functions before a successor can arrive to continue them. If our citizens have not already been shedding each others blood, it is not owing to the moderation of Mr. Genet, but to the forbearance of the government. It is well known that if the authority of the laws had been resorted to, to stop the Little Democrat, its officers and agents were to have been resisted by the crew of the vessel, consisting partly of American citizens. Such events are too serious, too possible, to be left to hazard, or to what is worse than hazard, the will of an agent whose designs are so mysterious. Lay the case then immediately before his government; accompany it with assurances, which cannot be stronger than true, that our friendship for the nation is constant and unabating; that faithful to our treaties, we have fulfilled them in every point, to the best of our understanding; that if in any thing, however, we have intruded them amiss, we are ready to enter into candid explanations, and to do whatever we can be convinced is right; that in opposing the extravagancies of an agent, whose character they deem not sufficiently to have known, we have been urged by motives of duty to ourselves, and justice to others, which cannot but be approved by those who are just themselves; and, finally, that, after independence and self-government, there is nothing we more sincerely wish than perpetual friendship with them."

Such was our "system of ingratitude and injustice towards France!"

LETTER.

From Mr. J. Persen, late Minister of the United States in France, and Secretary to the Department of Foreign Affairs, to a citizen of Virginia.

This letter, literally translated, is addressed to Mazzei, author of researches, historical and political, upon the United States of America, now resident in Tuscany.

"Our political situation is prodigiously changed since you left us. Instead of that noble love of liberty, and that republican government, which carried us through the dangers of the war, an Anglo Monarchio, Aristocratic party has risen. Their avowed object is to impose on us the substance, as they have already given us the form of the British government. Nevertheless, the principal body of our citizens remain faithful to republican principles. All our proprietors of lands are friendly to those principles, as also the men of talents. We have against us, (republicans) the Executive Power, the Judiciary Power, (two of the three branches of our government) all the officers of government, all who are seeking offices, all timid men who prefer the calm of despotism to the tempestuous sea of liberty, the British merchants and the Americans who trade on British capitals, the speculators, persons interested in the bank and public funds. [Establishments invented with views of corruption, and to assimilate us to the British model in its corrupt parts.]

"I should give you a fever, if I should name the apostates who have embraced these heresies; men who were Solomons in council, and Sampsons in combat, but whose hair has been cut off by the whole of England. [In the original, par la catin Angléterre, probably alluding to the woman's cutting off the hair of Sampson, and his loss of strength thereby.]

"They would wrest from us that liberty which we have obtained by so much labor and peril; but we shall preserve it. Our masts of weight and riches are so powerful, that we have nothing to fear from any attempt against us by force. It is sufficient that we guard ourselves, and that we break the illusionaries by which they have bound us, in the first lumbers which succeeded our labors. It suffices that we arrest the progress of that system of ingratitude and injustice towards France, from which they would alienate us, to bring us under British influence, &c."

The above letter was obviously written in the latter part of the year 1795, or the forepart of the year 1796, when "the Executive Power" of the United States was vested in Gen. Washington as President, and when Mr. Adams as Vice-President, was certainly to be numbered amongst "the Officers of Government."

Extract from Mr. Jefferson's inauguration Speech, March 4, 1797.

"I might here proceed and with the greatest truth to declare my zealous attachment to the constitution of the United States; that I consider the union of these states as the first of blessings, and as the first of duties the preservation of that constitution which secures it; but I suppose these declarations not pertinent to the occasion of entering into an office whose primary business is merely to preside over the forms of this house; and no one more sincerely prays that no accident may call me to the higher and more important functions which the constitution eventually devolves on this office. There have been justly conceded to the eminent character which has preceded me here, whose talents and integrity have been known and revered by me through a long course of years, have been the foundation of a cordial and uninterrupted friendship between us, and I devoutly pray be may be long preserved for the government, the happiness, and prosperity of our country."

Extract from a "Summary view of the Rights of British America," p. 21.

"Let those flatter, who fear; it is not an American art. To give praise, which is not due, might be well from the vernal, but would ill become those, who are asserting the rights of human nature."—For the author see Notes on Virginia, p. 189.

Oh! inconsistency, thy name is —

Mount Vernon, 13th July, '98.

DEAR SIR,

I HAD the honor on the evening of the 11th inst. to receive from the hand of the Secretary of War, your favor of the 7th, announcing that you had, with the advice and consent of the Senate, appointed me "Lieutenant General and Commander in Chief of all the Armies raised or to be raised for the service of the United States."

I cannot express how greatly affected I am at this new proof of public confidence, and the highly flattering manner in which you have been pleased to make the communication; at the same time I must not conceal from you my earnest wish that the choice had fallen upon a man less declined in years, and better qualified to encounter the usual vicissitudes of war.

You know, sir, what calculation I had made relative to the probable course of events, on my retiring from office, and the determination I had conceived myself with of closing the remnant of my days in my present peaceful abode; you will therefore be at no loss to conceive and appreciate the sensations I must have experienced, to bring my mind to any conclusion that would pledge me, at so late a period of life, to leave scenes I sincerely love, to enter upon the boundless field of public action, incessant trouble, and high responsibility.

It was not possible for me to remain ignorant of, or indifferent to recent transactions. The conduct of the Directory of France towards our country; their insidious hostility to its government; their various practices to withdraw the affections of the people from it; the evident tendency of their acts, and those of their agents to countenance and invigorate opposition; their disregard of solemn treaties and the laws of nations; their war upon our defenceless commerce; their treatment of our ministers of peace; and their demands amounting to tribute; could not fail to excite in me corresponding sentiments with those my countrymen have so generally expressed in their affectionate addresses to you. Believe me, Sir, no one can more cordially approve of the wise and prudent measures of your administration. They ought to inspire universal confidence, and will, no doubt, combined with the state of things, call from Congress such laws and means as will enable you to meet the full force and extent of the crisis.

Satisfied, therefore, that you have sincerely wished and endeavored to avert war, and exhausted, to the last drop, the cup of reconciliation, we can with pure hearts appeal to Heaven for the justice of our cause; and may confidently trust the final result to that kind providence who has heretofore, and so often, signally favored the people of these United States.

Thinking in this manner, and feeling how incumbent it is upon every person, of every description, to contribute at all times to his country's welfare, and especially in a moment like the present, when every thing we hold dear and sacred is so seriously threatened; I have finally determined to accept the commission of Commander in Chief of the Armies of the United States; with the reserve only, that I shall not be called into the field until the army is in a situation to require my presence, or it becomes indispensable by the urgency of circumstances.

In making this reservation, I beg it to be understood, that I do not mean to withhold any assistance to arrange and organize the army, which you may think I can afford. I take the liberty also to mention, that I must decline having my acceptance considered as drawing after it any immediate charge upon the public; or that I can receive any emoluments annexed to the appointment, before entering into a situation to incur expense.

The Secretary of War being anxious to return to the Seat of Government, I have detained him no longer than is necessary to a full communication upon the several points he had in charge.

With very great respect and consideration, I have the honor to be,

Dear Sir,

Your most obedient humble servant.

Go: WASHINGTON.

JOHN ADAMS,

President of the United States.

Thy name, O WASHINGTON, shall still triumph, and thy talents and integrity, O ADAMS, shall still be revered by every genuine friend of the Union, of the Constitution, of the Government, the happiness and prosperity of our common Country.—That Country shall be vindicated against the calumny of pursuing "a system of ingratitude and injustice towards France," and against the no less base calumny of pursuing a system of despotism at home.

HOW TO SEEK REPOSE.

You must commence by exerting all your interest and abilities to become a principal conspirator for the destruction of order, law and religion; which you must take care to begin in your own country (Ireland for instance). You must correspond and be in strict connection with the agents and spies of your country's declared enemies. You must lose no opportunities to foment dissensions, to misrepresent every action of government, and to excite in the people, by lies and every artifice that cunning wickedness can invent, an hatred to their governors. You must studiously and deliberately contrive to organize regular systems of disorganization; you must raise a fund for purchasing arms and ammunition to put into the hands of all the sworn disaffected; and you must instruct them how to act in a case of urgency, or open rebellion. If, in the prosecution of these quiet measures, your repose should be disturbed, and if, by running from the justice of your own country, you should be declared an outlaw for high treason, you can conceal yourself till there is an opportunity to embark for America, and on the passage you can amuse yourself by collecting together all the most vulgar and illiterate of your brother passengers to make judges, jurors, counsellors, witnesses, &c. forming a mock court of justice to try your injured sovereign; after sentence is pronounced, you can execute him in effigy, and delight your imagination by a fictitious representation of what you would most joyfully see realized. On your arrival here, begin to play off the same game as soon as possible; lose no time in forming another society of United Irishmen; admit among you not only all those whom disaffection has induced or guilt compelled to quit their own country, but also as many citizens of the United States as are favourers of French Jacobinism, and whose misapprehension of things you can so augment as to make them believe their governors are tyrannical, their constitution naturally tending to despotism, and themselves deprived of all the Rights of Man. Be closely connected with all the editors of the most seditious papers, and set no bounds to your calumnies of every branch of the Executive, and particularly of the Secretary of State, whom you must accuse of bribery and corruption; should you, thereby, expel an unfortunate man with ignominy from his office and his bread, should your repose be a little disturbed by a prosecution on this account, never mind it, 'tis all for the glorious cause of liberty and equality.

If you should happen to fall from Charleston to Philadelphia and broach your politics in so ungarded a manner as to provoke one of the passengers to take you up and fairly throw you overboard, you may (for the sake of repose) on being re-admitted on board promise not to open your lips in the presence of that person any more during the rest of the voyage.

When you walk or ride out for the benefit of air and exercise divert yourself by setting your dog to worry the farmer's ducks, fowls, geese, &c. If you are not seen you can tuck one or two under your coat: if you are discovered and should get horridly whipped, knocked in a puddle, kicked and cuffed and have your mouth filled with mud, you can avenge yourself but scattering dirt and every species of filthy abuse on every one who disturbs your repose. Should all your plots and conspiracies be discovered, should your very constitution be brought to light, and all your schemes for organizing seditious societies here be published, with your name, taken from your own hand writing as ringleader of rebellion, throw off the mask at once, glory in the illustrious epithet of an United Irishman, huff, bounce, bully, swagger in the most terrifying manner, to show your undaunted courage and your violent propensity to fighting: write furious letters to those who offend you, and threaten to challenge them if they won't be quiet, then swear you have challenged them; take a great Virginia gouger with you, and stick up a paper of lies in the coffee-house; and after you have sneaked away, should any one tear it down, you can enquire his name, but take no notice of it, go home and try to enjoy your repose. Should the whole tenor of your conduct, be in direct contradiction to the will, and destructive of the happiness of a worthy and indulgent parent, should it have the direct and inevitable tendency to bring down "his grey hairs with sorrow to the grave," never heed it, go on, the glorious cause delights in such sacrifices; the agonizing pangs of mangled nature, torn from her dearest, tenderest ties; the breaking of every bond that holds mankind together in friendly intercourse, the destruction of every virtue and the domination of every vice, are paltry considerations compared with the blessings of liberty to rob, violate and murder with impunity when and where we please: these things would not in the least disturb the repose of a thorough-paced United Irishman.

But should every thing abroad go wrong as well as here; should the rebellion in Ireland be quashed; should most of the principals be either slain or taken prisoners; should Holt surrender, and Tone cut his throat; should all their arms and ammunition fall into the hands of the king's troops; should the conqueror of Italy and all his army be cut to pieces; should your dear friends the French lose all their navy, and be utterly incapable of securing their own safety; much more to assist other anarchists; in short, should all these things drive you to desperation, madness, and despair, yet there is one resource left at last.—The gallows groans to give you that undisturbed repose, which all your prudence could not secure in this world, and which you may quietly enjoy, till the father of Jacobins take you to his own Hell, to live and reign with him for ever and ever.

A Red-hot Irish Jacobin.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 27th 1798.

SIR,

I have the honor to inclose you a price current for this place.

The Snow Adolphus, James Wilder master, arrived here from Virginia last summer with a cargo of Tobacco and Staves, of the produce of said state; but not being American built, without a register, and sailing under a sea letter; he has been repeatedly refused entry and must proceed to some other place to land. As in many late cases of vessels in exactly the same situation, the indulgence though contrary to law, has been almost invariably granted, I submit with due deference the propriety of making public these particulars with the view of apprizing our citizens of the inconvenience to which they may be subjected under the like circumstances, and from what has occurred on this occasion I verily believe all such vessels will in future be refused entry.

I have the honor to be

With perfect respect,

Sir,

Your most obt. servant.

JAMES MAURY.

Timothy Pickering Esq. Secretary of State to the United States of America, Philadelphia.

From the Philadelphia Gazette.

An accurate statement of the meeting between Majors Cushing and Lewis on Friday last.

The gentleman having met according to agreement, took their places at the distance of ten yards from each other. Each gentleman received one pistol from his friend. Previously to the fire, Major Cushing addressed himself to his friend, and said, that he had not interfered with the claim of Captain Lewis; and that he had no enmity to him. The gentlemen then received the word, agreeably to the arrangement, and fired nearly at the same time. Major Cushing's fire was without effect. Major Lewis's struck, and lodged in major Cushing's watch. Major Cushing, on being struck, moved a few steps, but immediately recovered his ground, and with great coolness and propriety said, "Gentlemen, I hope I have not left my ground." On finding Major Cushing was wounded, his friend mentioned it, and asked if the affair should now end. Major Cushing then said aloud, "that he had not injured or attempted to injure, Captain Lewis." After which a short conversation took place between Major Lewis and his friend, and the result was, that if the surgeons, on examination of the wound, should think it dangerous, the affair ought to end. Accorddingly, Major Cushing having, by consent, left his ground on account of its dampness, an examination immediately took place; and it being pronounced not dangerous, it was understood the affair should go on. Major Cushing then mentioned to his friend, that although there was no danger in his wound, yet that he suffered pain, and could not stand with such firmness as before he received it; that he wished to be on an equal footing with Captain Lewis; and would meet him again, if required, when recovered.

This being stated by the friend of Major Cushing to Major Lewis and his friend, they said, if Major Cushing desired a postponement of the affair, they certainly could not object to it. Major Cushing then said, that he wished to be on an equal footing with Captain Lewis, would meet him again, and he desired the matter might cease for the present.

Both the gentlemen behaved with the greatest coolness and intrepidity.

THE Book for Subscriptions to the Company for erecting a permanent Bridge over the river Schuylkill, at, or near the City of Philadelphia, continues open at the house of the Treasurer of said Company, No. 13, Church Alley.
January 8, 1799. eodw

WHEREAS,
BY an Act of Congress passed on the sixteenth day of July in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and ninety eight, the President of the United States is authorized to borrow on behalf of the United States from the Bank of the United States, or from any other body or bodies politic or corporate, or from any person or persons, and upon such terms and conditions as he shall judge most advantageous for the United States, a sum not exceeding five millions of dollars, so however, that no contract or engagement be made which shall preclude the United States from reimbursement any sum or sums borrowed at any time after the expiration of fifteen years from the date of such loan. And whereas, it is declared by the said Act, that so much as may be necessary of the surplus of the duties on Imports and Tonnage beyond the permanent appropriations heretofore charged upon them by law, shall be pledged and appropriated for paying the interest, and also for paying and discharging the principal sum or sums of all the monies which may be borrowed, according to the term or terms which may be fixed, pursuant to the authority aforesaid—And whereas by the said Act, the faith of the United States is pledged to establish sufficient permanent Revenues for making up any deficiency that may hereafter appear in the provisions before-mentioned for paying the interest and principal sums, or either of them, of any monies which may be borrowed pursuant to the said Act. And whereas the President of the United States did by an Act or Commission under his hand dated the ninth day of January in the year one thousand seven hundred and ninety nine, authorize and empower, the Secretary of the Treasury, to borrow on behalf of the United States, any sum not exceeding in the whole, five millions of dollars and to make such contract or contracts as should be necessary, and for the interest of the United States, in pursuance of the Act of Congress above recited.

Now therefore, the undersigned, Secretary of the Treasury, in pursuance of the Act of Congress, and the authority from the President of the United States, above mentioned, doth hereby on behalf of the United States of America, contract and engage in manner following, to wit.

1st. A book for receiving subscriptions to a Loan of five millions of dollars for the use of the United States shall be opened in the City of Philadelphia, at the Bank of the United States on Thursday the twenty eighth day of February enuing, which book shall continue open for the purpose of receiving subscriptions, until the whole of the said five millions of dollars shall be subscribed. If more than five millions of dollars shall be subscribed on the first day of opening the said loan, the surplus shall be deducted in proportion to the sums subscribed by individuals, exceeding four thousand dollars.

2d. For every hundred dollars which may be subscribed there shall be forthwith deposited and paid the sum of twelve dollars and fifty cents, and like payments of twelve dollars and fifty cents, shall be made within the first ten days of the months of April, May, June, July, August September and October enuing. The Secretary of the Treasury however reserves the right of reducing the number of installments by special agreements, with the individuals who may become subscribers.

3d. On the failure of payment of any installment of the sums subscribed according to the tenor of the second article, the next preceding installment of twelve dollars and fifty cents, which shall have been paid, for every hundred dollars subscribed shall be forfeited to the United States.

4th. The sums subscribed shall and may be paid to the credit of the United States, at the Bank of the United States, or at the offices of discount and deposit of the said Bank at Boston, New York, Baltimore, or Charleston, or at either of the Banks of Salem, in Massachusetts, Newport and Providence in Rhode-Island, Hartford in Connecticut, Albany in New York, or Alexandria in Virginia, for which payments, the receipts of the Cashiers of the Offices of Discount and Deposit and of the Banks aforesaid shall be received at the Bank of the United States as equivalent to money; but no payment of a subsequent installment shall be received at any other place than that where the first installment was paid, except at the Bank of the United States; in case any deposits shall be made at the offices of Discount or Deposit, or at either of the Banks aforesaid, which shall not be applied to the payment of the first installment of subscriptions to the Loan aforesaid, the said deposits shall be forthwith refunded by directions from the Treasury.

5th. For the sum or number of shares of one hundred dollars, which may be subscribed, certificates shall be given by the Cashier of the Bank of the United States, which shall be assignable by indorsement, and delivery of the parties in whose favour the said certificates may be issued, until the completion of the payments required by the tenor of the second article preceding.

6th. The sums subscribed and paid in pursuance of the tenor of the second article preceding, shall after the said payments have been completed, constitute a funded capital stock divisible into shares of one hundred dollars each, which capital stock shall bear interest at the rate of eight per centum per annum from the times fixed for the payment of the respective installments payable quarterly yearly at the Treasury of the United States, or at the Loan Offices where the same may stand credited, until the last day of December, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eight.

7th. After the last day of December in the said year one thousand eight hundred and eight, and after reasonable notice to the creditors, which shall be given by an advertisement in some public newspaper, printed at the seat of the government of the United States, the said capital stock shall be redeemable at the pleasure of the United States by the reimbursement of the whole sum or sums borrowed, and which may constitute the said capital stock either at the treasury of the United States or at the loan offices where the same may stand credited.

8th. The credits for the said capital stock shall and may be separately certified in sums either for one hundred, four hundred, one thousand, four thousand or ten thousand dollars, and the credits so certified shall be transferable by the creditors, or their attorneys, at the Treasury and Loan Offices respectively, in pursuance of the rules which have been, or which may be established relative to the transfer of the funded stock of the United States.

9th. A sufficient sum of the surplus of the duties on Imports and Tonnage beyond the permanent appropriations heretofore charged upon them by law, together with the faith of the United States are hereby pledged for the fulfillment of this contract, in pursuance of, and according to the terms and conditions of the act of Congress herein before recited.

Given under my hand and the Seal of the Treasury of the United States at Philadelphia, this twelfth day of January one thousand seven hundred and ninety nine.

OLIVER WOLCOTT,
Secretary of the Treasury.

cellent, and consist of a handsome Dwelling House, two large Barns with Cow houses, Stables for fifty horses, a spacious treading floor under cover, a granary, two Dyer's houses, two ranges of two story buildings for Negroes (one of them new and of brick), Corn houses a Smoak house, &c. &c.—The whole Estate being nearly surrounded by water, it requires but little fencing, and has a good Shad and Herring fishery. It is conveniently situated for both the Philadelphia and Baltimore markets, with two landings on a navigable river but a short sail from Baltimore. There is a large Peach, and two large Apple Orchards on the premises; also, a variety of excellent fruits of different kinds. The soil is mostly a rich loam.—The whole will be sold together or divided into smaller farms (for which the buildings are conveniently situated) as may suit the purchaser. The Stock on said Farm, consisting of Horses, Cattle, Sheep &c. will also be disposed of.—

The ESSAYS under the Signature of VIRGINIENSIS, ON THE ALIEN AND SEDITION LAWS.
(Price 25 cents, 12mo.)

IT is perhaps futile to expect to work conviction in the minds of so inveterate and vicious a class of men, as the Democrats of America, by any arguments however forcible, or any display of truth, however irresistible: These writings are, however, calculated to produce a more important and useful effect, by placing the subject in its true light before honest men, who are uninformed, or have been misinformed as to the nature and objects of those bills.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT.
JUNE 27, 1798.
NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, That by virtue of an act, passed during the present session of Congress, so much of the act entitled "An Act making further provision for the support of public credit, and for the redemption of the public debt"—passed the third day of March, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-five, as bears force in relation to the said act, Certificates, commonly called Loan Office and final settlement Certificates, and Indents of Interests, is suspended until the twelfth day of June, which will be in the year one thousand seven hundred and ninety nine.

That on the liquidation and settlement of the said Certificates, and Indents of Interest, at the Treasury, the Creditors will be entitled to receive Certificates of funded Three Per Cent. Stock equal to the amount of the said Indents, and the arrearages of interest due on their said Certificates, prior to the first day of January one thousand seven hundred and ninety one.

That the principal sums of the said Loan Office and final settlement Certificates, with the interest thereon, since the first day of January, one thousand seven hundred and ninety one, will be discharged after liquidation at the Treasury, by the payment of interest and reimbursement of principal, equal to the sums which would have been payable thereon, if the said Certificates had been subscribed, pursuant to the Acts making provision for the debts of the United States, contracted during the late war, and by the payment of other sums, equal to the market value of the remaining Stock, which would have been created by such subscriptions as aforesaid, which market value will be determined by the Comptroller of the Treasury.
OLIVER WOLCOTT,
Secretary of the Treasury.

A SHORT AND PRACTICAL ESSAY, ON FARMING: BEING the experience of a farmer of about sixty years of age; near forty years of which were spent in England, Essex county, on land where farming is done in the greatest perfection: and near seven years on three hundred and twenty acres of worn-out land in Pottsgrove and Alloway creek, in Salem county, West-Jersey.

Showing the means whereby these worn-out lands may be improved; and that the means are in the power of almost every farmer: Printed for the Author, AND SOLD
BY ZACHARIAH POULSON, Cheesnut-Street, Philadelphia.

N. B.—Some of the large sort of Clover seed may be had at Mr. John Cooper's, baker, no. 151
